

October 21, 2008

In the past ten years I have had the opportunity to work with Dr. Eric Woodroof on various energy related projects in the Oklahoma City area. Dr. Woodroof represented himself both in corporate and consultant positions during these encounters.

In both roles Dr. Woodroof has provided input that was professional, knowledgeable and with genuine enthusiasm. Dr. Woodroof has an extensive networking system that he readily accessed to help with providing customer solutions.

In the most recent transaction OG&E engaged Dr. Woodroof to conduct a technical presentation for OG&E members and targeted large customers on the issues surrounding carbon as they pertain to customer segments. He covered tutorial information followed by credits and finally by discussing auditing methods.

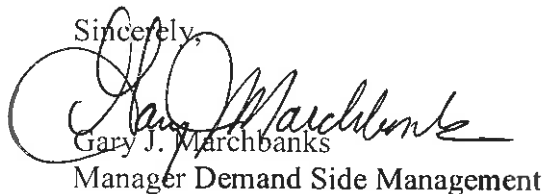

The seminar was one day in length and was highly interactive. The attendees have provided feedback about the content packed seminar and have asked that we bring Dr. Woodroof back for further training.

Our customers developed a strong interest in carbon footprints and it has enhanced the relationship between the utility and our large customers that we are indeed trying to provide timely and pertinent help to them.

OG&E plans to engage Dr. Woodroof for future seminars and utilize his services with future one on one visits with large customers.

I would without hesitation recommend companies that want to update their members or customers on carbon issues engage Dr. Woodroof to bring the latest information forward. He provides the resources and the national reputation to provide the complete training.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Gary J. Marchbanks'. The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial 'G' and 'M'.

Gary J. Marchbanks
Manager Demand Side Management